Gwen Onatolu Earns the CPLP™ Credential from the ASTD Certification Institute

Naperville, Illinois, January 12, 2007 – Management Resource Services, Inc. is pleased to announce that Gwen Onatolu, CPLP™ has earned the Certified Professional in Learning and Performance™ (CPLP) credential from the American Society for Training & Development (ASTD) Certification Institute. The CPLP™ credential covers the entire scope of the workplace learning and performance field.

Earning the CPLP designation means that Ms. Onatolu has the required industry-related experience, successfully passed a knowledge-based examination, and submitted a work product that met performance standards.

Becoming a CPLP enhances a professional's reputation by certifying that the individual has an overall understanding of the nine areas of expertise for workplace learning and performance as defined by the ASTD Competency Model™, and can apply this knowledge in the workplace. Ms. Onatolu earned her destination with an emphasis on Training Delivery.

"As the association dedicated to the workplace learning and performance profession, ASTD has a rich source of information on the critical skills and abilities that practitioners must have to succeed in the field," says Tony Bingham, President of the ASTD Certification Institute. "CPLP-certified individuals possess knowledge across the entire workplace learning and performance field, and this credential will help them demonstrate their value to managers, colleagues, and clients," he notes.

About ASTD and the ASTD Certification Institute

ASTD is the world's largest association dedicated to workplace learning and performance professionals. ASTD started 1944 when the organization held its first annual conference. To support members' ongoing development in the field, ASTD formed the ASTD Certification Institute to take the lead in setting professional industry standards. The ASTD Certification Institute certifies professionals through the CPLP credential.
